Royersford and Spring City were busy manufacturing towns with major stove foundries, glass works, knitting mills and numerous other businesses.

The Spring-Ford Museum is located in a 19th Century Farm House & Barn.

The Main House contains an office, a large research library for local genealogy and history, and six rooms containing local artifacts and memorabilia.

The Fetterolf Gallery

The gallery behind the main house once served as the Lewin barn.

The Gallery houses major collections of memorabilia and artifacts of the schools, manufacturers and retailers in the area.

Dr. Brower's Sleigh

The Lewin barn was renovated in 2000 when we purchased the property. It was renamed the Fetterolf Gallery in honor of Carolyn Fetterolf our first museum director.
